Alumni Honored

Paul Phibbs and Steve Agee Selected For Awards

Dr. Paul V. Phibbs, Jr. and G. Steven Agee were honored for outstanding career achievements during the annual alumni banquet held on Alumni Day in May.

Dr. Phibbs of Greenville, N.C., a 1964 Bridgewater graduate, was presented the 1986 Distinguished Alumnus Award. Mr. Agee of Salem, Va., who graduated from B.C. in 1974, received the Young Alumnus Award.

Paul, who is a son of Paul V. Phibbs, Sr., '60, and Bertha Dickerson Phibbs, '61, is Chairman of the Department of Microbiology and Immunology at East Carolina University School of Medicine. He also serves as Administrative Director for the developing biotechnical program at ECU.

Paul's brothers, Charles and Morris, and sister, Betty Phibbs Keller, also are Bridgewater graduates of the classes of 1970, 1973, and 1967, respectively.

Prior to accepting his position January 1 at ECU, Paul was on the faculty of the Medical College of Virginia of Virginia Commonwealth University in Richmond, serving most recently as Professor of Microbiology and Immunology and Assistant Department Chairman. Paul had been at MCV since 1970.

Paul graduated from Bridgewater with a bachelor's degree in general science. He holds a master of science degree in medical microbiology from the University of Georgia School of Veterinary Medicine and a doctorate in microbiology, also from the University of Georgia.

Paul Phibbs gives thanks to his family and the college community.

Dr. Geisert congratulates Steve Agee on his Young Alumnus Award.

He also spent a year as a post-doctoral research fellow at the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis.

Paul has been a visiting professor of microbiology at the University of Alabama Medical Center in Birmingham and at the College of Medicine of the University of South Alabama in Mobile. He also spent several months of the 1984-85 school year as Visiting Professor of Genetics at Monash University in Melbourne, Australia.

His research of the past 15 years, which has been funded by the National Science Foundation and by private industry, has been in the area of Pseudomonas, a bacteria known to cause serious infections in people with injuries or illnesses. His articles on the subject have appeared in such publications as the "Journal of Infectious Diseases," "Journal of Bacteriology" and in "Archives of Biochemistry and Biophysics."

Paul has served on the Editorial Board of the "Journal of Bacteriology" and he is a member of the American Society of Microbiology, the Society of the Sigma XI, the American Association of University Professors, Phi Kappa Phi, the Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine, and the American Society for Rickettsiology and Rickettsial Diseases.

He is also a member of the Virginia Academy of Sciences, which he served as Vice President in 1975 and as President in 1976.

In a recent letter to President Geisert, Paul wrote, "The Distinguished Alumnus Award that the College recently bestowed on me was the most meaningful and unexpected honor that I have received during my career."

Paul also wrote, "I shall always be deeply grateful for the educational opportunity and cultural environment that Bridgewater provided me. As I tried to express at the award banquet, I place the highest value on the broad liberal arts training experience that I received at Bridgewater. The instruction that I received in the sciences certainly was more than adequate preparation for my postgraduate work, but the exposure to the fine arts, philosophy, religion, and classical literature have contributed no less to my academic career of teaching and research."

In conclusion, Paul wrote, "Of course, I am especially grateful that "Doc" Harry Jopson and his wife were there to make the award presentation."

Paul and his wife, Marilyn, have two daughters, Heather and Elizabeth.

Alumni Enjoy Fun-Filled Day

Alumni Day activities began with a brunch meeting of the Alumni Association Board, with Allen Schwender, '75, President of the Association, hosting the group.

Of major interest was the Board's decision to initiate a special Alumni Association Citation of Merit award to be given for the first time at the 1987 Alumni Banquet. An ad hoc committee was appointed to establish suitable selection criteria for the award.

Over 150 persons enjoyed reminiscing with friends and classmates.

Twenty persons participated in a lively and competitive round of golf during the annual Alumni Golf Tournament held at nearby Lakeview Golf Course. Winners this year included Royal Snavelly, '59, and Mike Palmer, '85 (1st place); Tim Grimes, '81, Michael Hunt, '81, and David Doolittle (2nd place); and Greg Henderson, '85, and Warren Saunders, '83 (3rd place).

Allen Schwender serves as host of the Alumni Banquet.

Alumni enjoy visiting during Alumni Day.

Four Directors-at-Large recently elected to serve three-year terms beginning July 1, 1986 were introduced at the meeting. They were: Bruce Elliott, '76, a certified public accountant in the Harrisonburg firm of Elliott and Troyer; Don Myers, '65, a regional manager of Dominion Trust Company in Harrisonburg; Judy Miller Rees, '81, a mathematics teacher at Turner Ashby High School in Dayton; and Mabel Wake-man Weiss, '65, a housewife and full-time mother from Staunton, Va. It was also announced that Father Lawrence M. Johnson, '75, of Baltimore, Md., will fill an unexpired term on the Board.

During the morning, alumni and friends honored Miss Ruth Howe, retired Home Economics Department Chairman, with a special reception held in Moomaw Hall.

Afternoon activities included reunion luncheons and picture taking for the classes of 1906, 1911, 1916, 1921, 1926, 1931, 1936, 1941, 1946, 1951, and 1956.

Also during the day, alumni toured the Reuel B. Pritchett Museum, browsed in the campus bookstore, and enjoyed an open swim in the pool in Nininger Hall. In the afternoon, a reception was held by the art department with the college's senior art majors on hand to discuss their exhibits in the senior art show that was in the gallery throughout the weekend.

Alumni Day ended with the annual banquet attended by over 180 Bridgewater graduates and friends. During the banquet, President-Elect Mensel Dean of Bridgewater was installed as Alumni Association President for the coming year. Mensel, a 1967 Bridgewater graduate, will take over leadership from outgoing president, Allen F. Schwender of Timonium, Md. Mensel is a certified public accountant with the Harrisonburg firm of McGladrey, Hendrickson, and Pullen. Doris Niswander Albaugh, '55, of Union Bridge, Md., will serve as President-Elect, and Robert Newlen, '75, of Washington, D.C., will continue as Secretary. Allen Schwender was presented a plaque of appreciation for his dedication, enthusiasm, and numerous trips from Baltimore over the past year to attend the many meetings and events on campus.

A special treat for those attending the banquet was the entertainment provided by the alumnae quartet made up of JoAnnis Humbert Eller, '55, Ina Mason Shank, '48, Shirley Petcher Wilkerson, '49, and Mary Alice Phillips Womble, '54. They sang such favorites as "Kentucky Babe," "Now Is the Month of Maying," "Some Folks," and "My Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean."

In keeping with tradition, Dr. Nelson T. Huffman, '25, Professor Emeritus, closed the banquet by leading the singing of "Bridgewater Fair."

Fifty-Year Club Banquet Kindles Memories

A large number of Fifty-Year Club members shared "A Walk Down Memory Lane" with banquet speaker C. E. May, '24, following an excellent dinner and the induction of the "freshman" class of 1936.

The Club met during Alumni Weekend in May for its fourth annual event.

Prof. May reminisced about Bridgewater College beginning with the presidency of Dr. Paul H. Bowman up to and including the years of Dr. Wayne F. Geisert. He touched both the hearts and the memories of everyone through his vivid and intimate pictures of the life and times of Bridgewater College as only one like "Tiny" May could create.

Thirty members and spouses of the Class of 1936 were on hand to stand together to officially enter the ranks of the Fifty-Year Club. Rufus B. King of North Manchester, Ind., was convenor for the class.

Dr. Clifford T. Riddel, '33, accompanied by Ruth Weybright Stauffer, '21, charmed those in attendance by singing several old favorites such as "On the Road to Mandalay" and "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" in his glorious bass voice.

Fifty-Year Club President Leona Zigler Row Eller, '34, presided over the banquet before transferring leadership to President-elect J. Emmert Ikenberry, '28. Emmert presented plaques to Leona and to Club Secretary A. Olivia Cool, '27, with many thanks for all of their hard work on behalf of the Fifty-Year Club. Olivia completed her two-year term as secretary and will be succeeded by Rebecca V. Myers, '30. Robert Sherfy, '30, was elected as President-elect for the upcoming year. Evelyn Blose Row, '32, was also recognized for her continued service as Club Archivist.

Steve Agee, the recipient of the Young Alumnus Award, is a partner in the Roanoke law firm Osterhoudt, Ferguson, Natt, Aheron & Agee, P.C. and is a member of the Virginia House of Delegates. Steve won his bid for election in 1981, the first time he ran for a political office, and he has been re-elected three times to represent the 15th legislative district in the House. Steve is on the Committees of Roads and Internal Navigation, Conservation and Natural Resources, and Nominations and Confirmations.

Upon graduating from Bridgewater with a degree in philosophy and religion, Steve entered the University of Virginia Law School, from which he graduated with a Juris Doctor Degree.

He then was selected into the New York University Law School as a Wallace Scholar in Taxation, and he earned a Master of Law Degree in Taxation.

Steve was elected to Bridgewater's Board of Trustees in November.

He is a member of the Virginia and District of Columbia Bars, the Roanoke Bar Association, the Salem-Roanoke County Bar Association, and the Committee on Taxation of the Virginia Bar Association.

He is active in the life of his local community as a member of the Salem Rotary Club, the Shawsville Ruritan Club, and Taylor Lodge #23 A.F. and A.M., and he serves as a member of the Advisory Board of the Bank of Shawsville. He also has handled church legal work and has served as a lay speaker in his church.

Steve is convenor of the Roanoke Chapter of the College's Alumni Association, and he has served as a Delegate-at-Large to the Alumni Association.

Steve's parents are Mr. and Mrs. George C. Agee of Roanoke, and his brother, Andy, graduated from Bridgewater in 1984. His wife, Nancy, is Administrative Supervisor of Nurses at Roanoke Memorial Hospital.

While Steve was at B.C., he was a member of the Lambda Society and of Alpha Chi. He was on the staff of The Talon and was in the Student Senate, as well as a member of Students Interested in Relating to the Church.

Alumni Association Recognizes Students

The Bridgewater College Alumni Association recognized three students for outstanding scholarship and citizenship during the annual Awards Convocation the last week of classes.

Alumni Association scholarships were awarded to Melita Ann Ball of Harrisonburg and Tina Marie Stalnaker of Natural Bridge. Jerry Anne Thompson of Fairfax received the association's Citizenship Award.

Melita Ball, a junior philosophy and religion major, received the $800 scholarship given each year to a rising senior. She was the recipient of the rising junior scholarship a year ago. A graduate of William Fleming High School in Roanoke, Va., she is a daughter of Walter Ball, Sr., of Roanoke and Mary Padgett of Salem, Va.

Melita is a member of Bridgewater's lacrosse team, Student Committee for Religious Activities (SCRA), and the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. She also is a member of the Lambda Society and of Alpha Chi, the College's two honor societies, and of the College's Stage Band and Concert Band. She has worked on campus for the Student Development Office, as an assistant in the English and philosophy and religion departments, and at the campus switchboard.

Tina Stalnaker, a sophomore business administration major, received the $650 scholarship presented annually to a rising junior. She is a graduate of Natural Bridge High School and is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Stalnaker.

Tina also is a member of the Eagles' lacrosse team, and she is a student director at the Kline Campus Center.

Both scholarships are awarded on the basis of academic achievement, financial need, good citizenship, and general merit.

Jerry Anne Thompson is a recent cum laude graduate who majored in both art and business administration. She is a graduate of Robinson Secondary School and is a daughter of Maxine C. Thompson.

At Bridgewater, Jerry Anne was a member of Chorale, Concert Choir, Oratorio Choir, Phi Beta Lambda business club, and Brethren Student Fellowship. She served as vice president of the Pinion Players and is a member of

Degrees Awarded In Early May

Bachelors degrees were awarded to 160 Bridgewater seniors, and two area college presidents received honorary degrees at the College's 160th annual commencement exercises held Sunday, May 11.

Of the 160 seniors participating in the graduation ceremonies, 16 are candidates for graduation in July. Fifty-nine of the students were in the Bachelor of Arts program, and 101 were in the Bachelor of Science curriculum.

Thirty-two of the seniors received honors, including Sandra Lee Walbridge of Easton, Md., who completed her studies at Bridgewater with a 4.0 grade-point average. Two additional students graduated summa cum laude, Connie Ann Glembot and Gina Lynnelle Popp. Lorisa Ann Hyatt will graduate summa cum laude in July. Students must have a grade-point average of 3.8 or better and successfully complete an honors project and written and oral comprehensive examinations to graduate summa cum laude.

Six students graduated magna cum laude with a 3.5 or better grade-point average, the successful completion of an honors project, and written and oral examinations. These students are James Hunter Baker, Jr., Anne Dana Hobson, Diane Louise Krahe, Edythe Lynn Lewis, Cynthia Gail Mason, and Eugene Franklin Pence, Jr.

Ronald E. Carrier and Richard C. Detweiler were awarded honorary degrees during the commencement.

Dr. Carrier, who recently took a year's leave of absence from the presidency of James Madison University, is June, 1986

vered the commencement address titled "Preparing for the 21st Century" and was awarded an honorary Doctor of Public Administration Degree.

Dr. Detweiler, President of Eastern Mennonite College, delivered the message, "The Call to Life-Giving," at the baccalaureate service Sunday morning in the Bridgewater Church of the Brethren. He was awarded an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree.

Also participating in the commencement exercises were the College's Concert Choir and Concert Band. The Reverend Bobby L. Phillips of Eden, N.C., father of graduating senior Melinda Phillips, delivered the commencement invocation, and the Reverend Frank Funk of Coquitlam, British Columbia, father of graduate Janet Funk, gave the benediction.

Samuel Spencer and Herman Horn

Dr. Samuel R. Spencer, Jr., President of the Virginia Foundation for Independent Colleges, spoke twice on Founders Day and was awarded an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree at the annual Founders Day convocation.

At the convocation, Dr. Spencer addressed the audience that included the Class of 1986 in its first academic procession, faculty, administration, and visiting dignitaries. The topic of Dr. Spencer's address was "It's A Small World—Or Is It?"

That evening, at the Founders Day Dinner, Dr. Spencer again gave the address, this time titled "What Difference Does It Make?" He told the more than 600 people in attendance that there are differences in higher education and that those differences are important.

"If our interest in the quality of our educational system is intelligent and perceptive as well as genuine, we will recognize the differences among our colleges and universities and see that each of the various types continues to flourish and to make its distinctive contribution to the warp and woof of the entire fabric," Dr. Spencer said. He cited three differences between schools such as Bridgewater and public universities—the type of education offered, the scale of operations, and institutional autonomy.

"Unlike a university, Bridgewater specializes in undergraduate education," Dr. Spencer said. "The undergraduate at a college like Bridgewater is in the central focus and raison d'être of the entire educational program, academic and non-academic, for both are important in a place like this," he continued.

Dr. Spencer stated that at a school the size of Bridgewater, "That emphasis on the personal, that network of human relationships often identified by small-college graduates today as the most important element in the total college experience, is a distinctive result of manageable scale."

In addressing his third point, Dr. Spencer told his audience that "we need to rally 'round colleges like this because they represent something absolutely vital to the health and welfare of the American educational system: independence."

"Through your interest in Bridgewater," he told the group, "you are helping to resist their homogenization by underwriting the future of a highly important element in that diversity: an independent college of manageable and personal scale devoted to the specialty of high quality liberal arts education for undergraduates."

Dr. Spencer is President Emeritus of Davidson College in Davidson, N. C., and has been involved with independent colleges for nearly 50 years. As a student in the 1930's, he graduated summa cum laude in English from Davidson College. He worked for Vick Chemical Company in New York City before entering the United States Army, where he remained until being discharged in 1945 with the rank of major.

Dr. Spencer then entered Harvard University where he earned both a master's and a doctoral degree in history while being honored with Austin, Kent, and Rosenwald Fellowships. He also spent a year during this time as a research assistant to Grenville Clark in Dublin, N. H.

In 1951, Dr. Spencer returned to Davidson College where he served as Assistant to the President, Dean of Students, and on the history faculty. While there, he wrote two books, Decision for War, 1917 and Booker T. Washington and the Negro's Place in American Life.

From 1957 to 1968, Dr. Spencer was President of Mary Baldwin College, spending one year as a Fulbright Lecturer at the University of Munich. From 1968 to 1983, he was President of Davidson College and became active in numerous regional and national educational organizations.

Since 1983, Dr. Spencer has served as President of the Virginia Foundation for Independent Colleges, the major fund-raising body for 14 of Virginia's independent colleges. In total contributions last year alone, the Virginia Foundation raised $2.7 million to help support these private Virginia institutions of higher learning.

Founders Day is observed each year near the birthday of the College's founder, D. C. Flory. The Founders Day Dinner is held each year in recognition of members of the College's Giving Clubs who have given financial support of $100 or more to the College during the fiscal year.

Alumni Cited

Two Bridgewater alumni were cited during the Founders Day Dinner for outstanding achievement in their respective fields.

Lawrence H. Hoover, Sr., '27, has been the senior law partner in the Harrisonburg law firm of Hoover, Hoover, Penrod & Davenport for 52 years.

R. Lowell Wine, '41, Professor Emeritus of Statistics at Hollins College, is well known as a scholar, teacher, and author, both of statistics-related subjects and of his many and varied travels throughout the United States, Mexico, and Nepal.

In addition to practicing law in Harrisonburg since 1934, Mr. Hoover has served eight years as the Commonwealth's attorney for the City of Harrisonburg and Rockingham County, 20 years as Harrisonburg's City Attorney, and 14 years in the Virginia House of Delegates. While a delegate, he was Awarded Honorary Degrees

Herman Horn began and ended his collegiate career at Bridgewater College — just the way he had hoped. On Founders Day, his alma mater awarded him an honorary degree, Doctor of Humane Letters.

As a young man, Herman Horn attended Bridgewater Academy and then graduated in 1924 with a Bachelor of Arts degree in English from Bridgewater College.

During his first year following graduation, Dr. Horn taught and coached at Craigsville High School in his native Augusta County. From 1925-1930, he was principal of Troutville High School in Boutetourt County, and from 1930-1940, he was principal of William Byrd High School in Roanoke County. While living in Roanoke, he completed his master's degree in political science at Duke University.

From 1940-1942, Dr. Horn was Director of Instruction for Roanoke County Schools before doing military welfare work for the American Red Cross during World War II. When the war ended, he spent a year each as principal of Marion High School in Smyth County and as associate professor of Hollins College. For the next seven years, Dr. Horn was an associate professor at Virginia Tech, during which time he completed his doctorate in political science and history at Duke.

Dr. Horn is widely known for his public school work during the 10 years between 1955-1965 when he was superintendent of Roanoke County Schools. During this time he supervised the growth of the capacity of the school system to adapt to a tremendous rise in the number of school-aged children. In this single decade, the school population in Roanoke County increased from 10,000 to 17,000 children.

In 1965, Dr. Horn resigned his position as superintendent of schools to return to the classroom, this time as a professor of history and political science at Culver-Stockton College in Missouri. Two years later, Dr. Geisert convinced him to return to Bridgewater where he chaired the Department of History and Political Science until his retirement in 1971 at age 69.

Dr. Horn is a charter member of the Vinton Lions Club and served as District Governor of Lions International. He was president of Bridgewater's Alumni Association in the early 1950's.

He is listed in Who's Who in American Education, and is a member of Alpha Kappa Psi and Phi Beta Kappa.

appointed by the governor to serve on the Education Commission in 1959, and by the Speaker of the House to serve on the Civil War Commission in 1960. In 1961, he was appointed by the governor to the position of chairman of the Redistricting Commission, and he was widely heralded and acclaimed in the mid-1960's for authoring the solution to Virginia's redistricting problem.

In addition to his other offices, Mr. Hoover served from 1960 to 1986 as Commissioner in Chancery of the local Circuit Court, and from 1960 to 1985 as its Assistant Commissioner of Accounts. He currently serves as Commissioner of Accounts.

Mr. Hoover has served as president of the Harrisonburg Kiwanis Club and has had leading roles on local, state, and national levels of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. He has chaired numerous fund-raising campaigns for such organizations as the Red Cross and the March of Dimes, and for many years was a Sunday School teacher at the Harrisonburg Church of the Brethren.

In addition to his bachelor's from Bridgewater, he holds the LL. B degree from the University of Virginia.

Mr. Hoover is married to the former Ola May, '28, and the couple has two children, four grandchildren, and one great-grandchild.

Dr. R. Lowell Wine has been involved with Bridgewater College for nearly 50 years, first as a student, graduating in 1941 with a Bachelor of Arts degree in chemistry, and then as a member of the Board of Trustees from 1968 until the present. Last November, he was elected a Life Trustee.

Faculty And Staff Retire

With a combined total of 116 years of service at Bridgewater College, five faculty members and one member of the Bridgewater staff retired at the close of the 1985-86 academic year.

Mr. William E. Barnett, Associate Professor of Sociology and Chairman of the Department since 1955, retired after serving at Bridgewater College for 31 years. Professor Barnett came to Bridgewater after completing advanced graduate studies at North Carolina State University where his major emphasis was in rural sociology. Prior to these studies, he had received a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Richmond and a Master's degree in sociology from the University of Virginia.

"A well-liked and able teacher, Professor Barnett endeared himself to many student generations," said President Wayne F. Geisert. "His willingness to make a lively investment of his talents in co-curricular activities beyond the classroom meant a great deal to all of us at Bridgewater College."

Professor Barnett plans to continue living in Bridgewater where he will pursue his hobby of horseback riding and begin a study of finance and investments. He will continue to be active on campus by working with the riding club and Program Council.

Mr. Robert L. Hueston, Carman G. Blough Associate Professor of Accounting, retired after 33 years of service. Before coming to Bridgewater in 1953, he had earned a Bachelor of Arts degree from Bethany College in Bethany, W. Va. and a Master's in business administration from the University of Wisconsin.

When asked about Professor Hueston's contribution to Bridgewater College, President Geisert said, "The esteem in which Bob Hueston is held is illustrated by the fact that both our current students and our alumni are moving ahead vigorously in establishing the Hueston Endowed Scholarship Fund. Professor Hueston was known as a demanding professor, and his students came to understand why he was demanding. They know that they became true professionals because he is thoroughly professional in his teaching activities. Both Bridgewater College and the whole accounting field owe Bob Hueston a real debt of gratitude," the president continued.

Immediately following his retirement, Professor Hueston is traveling throughout the United States and Canada; upon returning, he plans to continue working, on a part-time basis, for an accounting firm in Harrisonburg.

Dr. Frederick G. Keihn, Professor of Chemistry and Chairman of the Department, retired at the end of the academic year. Dr. Keihn has taught at Bridgewater College for 19 years and served as Chairman of the Chemistry Department this past academic year. He holds a Bachelor of Science degree from Randolph-Macon College, a Master's of Science from Lehigh University in Bethlehem, Pa., and a Ph.D. from Syracuse University. He came to Bridgewater College in 1967 after having worked as a research scientist with the General Electric Company in Syracuse and after having taught at Presbyterian College in Clinton, S.C., for two years.

"He is an able teacher who insists on good performance on the parts of his students," said President Geisert. "His provocative pursuit of knowledge made his contributions valuable to our students and thus to our whole campus."

Dr. Keihn will continue to reside in Harrisonburg where he will enjoy his retirement by painting and working in his orchard and garden.

Dr. Keihn

Dr. Martha B. Thornton, Professor of Religion since 1968, retired after 18 years of teaching at Bridgewater College. She also served as Assistant Dean of Students from 1968 to 1971, as Associate Dean of Students from 1972 to 1975, as Associate in Counseling from 1976 to 1978, and as Coordinator of Career Planning and Placement since 1979. She holds a Bachelor of Science degree from Defiance College, and a Master's degree and Doctorate in Religious Education from Hartford Seminary Foundation. Prior to coming to Bridgewater College, she served as counselor and teacher in the Tri-School Program of Saint Margaret's School, Westover School, and Taft School in Waterbury, Conn.

President Geisert commented on Dr. Thornton's retirement by saying, "Bridgewater College will miss Dr. Martha Thornton. She is a very able and versatile lady. Throughout her years at Bridgewater she carried dual roles. Her first assignment with us involved her in teaching religion and serving as Assistant Dean of Students. In recent years, she continued her teaching activities but moved over to special responsibilities as Director of Career Planning. Shortly, she became recognized as a true professional in this field just as she had been recognized as a fine professional in student personnel work and in her teaching."

Dr. Thornton has moved back to her native state of Pennsylvania where she may do some part-time teaching and possibly write a textbook in religion.

Mrs. Janet W. Stevens, Assistant Professor of Home Economics, retired in May after having been a part of the Home Economics Department at Bridgewater College for seven years. Mrs. Stevens holds a Bachelor of Science degree from the University of Maryland and a Master's degree in education from James Madison University.

"Mrs. Stevens came to Bridgewater seven years ago following a successful career in public education. She devoted herself thoroughly to her new tasks in higher education and shortly earned the respect of both her students and her peers," President Geisert said. "She is known to all of us as a capable, gracious, and cooperative person."

Mrs. Stevens plans to divide her time between her home in Bridgewater and her cottage at Bethany Beach, Del., where she will spend time boating with her husband, Dick.

Mr. Jacob H. Tutwiler, Maintenance Staff Person, is retiring from full-time service this summer after serving at Bridgewater College for eight years. "Jake Tutwiler is a craftsman," said President Geisert. "His work as head carpenter was top-notch in terms of his products. His gentle and friendly spirit combined with his characteristic of being self-energizing made him a valuable and well-liked member of the Bridgewater staff." Mr. Tutwiler plans to continue living at his home in Rockingham County and will do some work at Bridgewater on a part-time basis.

Mr. Tutwiler

These retirements were formally announced at the College's annual Faculty and Staff Recognition Dinner in May. Also at the dinner, the College awarded service pins to five faculty members and two administrators for their extended service to Bridgewater College.

Of the seven recognized, Mrs. Janet S. Stepp, Secretary to the Dean, received a 30-year pin, while 25-year pins were awarded to: Miss Laura S. Mapp, Associate Professor of Physical Education; Dr. W. Robert McFadden, Professor of Religion; Dr. Dean R. Neher, Professor of Computer Science and Physics; and Dr. Dale V. Ulrich, Provost. Mr. Melvin D. Wampler, Business Manager and Treasurer, received a 20-year pin, and Mr. Lamar B. Neal, Associate Professor of Political Science and History, received a 15-year pin.

Dr. R. Lowell Wine—continued from page 7 and, in 1957, became Professor of Statistics at Hollins College, a position he held until his recent retirement.

Dr. Wine is the author of two textbooks, Statistics for Scientists and Engineers and Beginning Statistics, as well as numerous journal articles in his field.

He has taught summer sessions at a number of universities and has served as a consultant to both government and industry.

Dr. Wine is a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and is a past chairman of the Virginia District of the American Statistical Association. He is a former chairman of the statistics section of the Virginia Academy of Science.

He is, or has been listed, in Who's Who in the South and Southwest, Dictionary of International Biography, Dr. Wine has been married since 1942 to the former Ruth Ellen Crumpacker, also a member of Bridgewater's Class of 1941, and the couple has three children and seven grandchildren.

Impact/91 Nears 75% Of Goal

Contributions and commitments from 4,975 donors to Bridgewater's Impact/91—A Projection In Excellence campaign have brought the total through May 31 to $13,309,309, nearly 75% of the goal of raising $18,000,000 by June 30, 1991.

Alumni gifts and pledges continue to lead the giving with 3,107 alumni having made commitments of $3,284,091. To date, 687 friends have pledged or given $861,201, and 562 parents have made commitments of $384,899.

Gifts from 321 businesses and foundations have totalled $1,758,453 through the end of May, and church contributions and commitments have reached $358,535 from 269 congregations.

A total of $6,652,131 has gone toward Impact/91 in estates received and committed.

These figures are cumulative totals in the fund-raising campaign that is almost four years old.

Of the more than $13,000,000 raised, $5,201,441 has come to the College in gifts of cash, with $3,765,471 in stock, real estate, property, and other gifts in kind. Outstanding pledges total $1,944,082, and $2,398,316 is in the form of estate commitments and estates in probate.

Phonathon Nets $51,000

Don Glick, '49 and M. Guy West, '26, enjoy chatting with alumni during Phonathon '86.

Fifty-nine Bridgewater College students, alumni, faculty, and staff made 3,753 calls to raise $51,399 during Phonathon '86 in April.

"This figure is the largest amount ever raised in a B.C. Phonathon and represents commitments from a total of 1061 donors—an increase of 271 donors and $7,749 over 1985 figures," stated J. Robert Strickler, Assistant Director of Development for Annual Giving and Alumni Relations. "Phonathon '86 could not have been as successful without the combined efforts of dedicated volunteers and the generosity of alumni, parents, and friends of the College."

The Reverend M. Guy West, '26, received this year's "Grand Phonie" award at the recent Alumni Banquet. Ron Cox, Chairman of the Alumni Gifts committee, in his presentation of the award noted: "Guy West is truly a remarkable individual and a tireless supporter for Bridgewater. During the April 6-17 Phonathon campaign, Guy made a total of 134 calls, raising $8,460 from 104 donors."

Several alumni traveled distances to help out this year. Robert I. Campbell, '40, came from Washington, D.C.; Jewel Miller Myers, '60, from McLean, Va.; Jonathan D. Lyle, '79, from Richmond, Va.; and Stephen O. Mason, '74, came all the way from Chicago, Ill., to make calls.

"Such dedicated involvement as shown in the Phonathon and in other areas of college life by our students, alumni, faculty, and staff keeps Bridgewater one of the best, small, private liberal arts colleges in our nation," observed Cox.

Business Campaign Exceeds Goal

Over $118,000 has been contributed or pledged in the 1985-86 Bridgewater College Area Business Campaign.

This figure exceeds the goal of $103,000 and represents commitments of financial support from 149 donors, making this year's campaign the most successful in Bridgewater's history.

"We are especially pleased to announce the addition of 36 new donors, a total donor increase of over 35%, which greatly exceeds our donor goal this year of a 20% increase," stated James B. Richardson, Jr., President of Dominion Bank of Shenandoah Valley and Chairman of this year's campaign.

"Truly, these figures attest to the strong base of support in the local community for Bridgewater College and to the commitment of time and energy from the 70+ local volunteers who made calls on behalf of the College," Richardson added.

"I am tremendously pleased with the results of this year's Business Campaign," stated President Wayne F. Geisert. "We at Bridgewater College hold dear our working partnership with the local community business leaders—a relationship which enables us to offer students a quality education. Jim Richardson and his team of dedicated volunteers are to be commended for a job well done."

Funds from this year's campaign will be used for such capital projects as repairs and improvements of flood-damaged Jopson Field and the replacement of the basketball playing floor and upgrading of the lighting in Nininger Hall.

Wilmer Kline Pledges Farm To College

In 1970, Wilmer M. Kline, '23, an honorary trustee of Bridgewater College, pledged a portion of a valuable Manassas farm to the College and encouraged other members of his family to pledge support to Bridgewater's 90th Anniversary Fund.

The generous support of the many Klines is evidenced at Bridgewater by the Kline Campus Center, a building that serves as the hub of activity throughout the year.

Since the time of his original pledge, his property has greatly appreciated in value. Recently Mr. Kline used the pledged portion of the farm to set up a trust with the College. The trust provides that Mr. Kline will receive an income from Bridgewater College for the remainder of his life.

Since the principal of the trust derived from the sale of the property is much greater than the estimated value of the original pledge, a significant part of the gift has qualified to be applied toward Bridgewater's current fund-raising campaign, Impact/91—A Projection in Excellence.

"Mr. Kline is a gentle and loving spirit. He exemplifies what many of us would like to be: intelligent, generous, thoughtful, courteous, and truly Christian," President Geisert said.

Mr. Kline married the late Nora Harley, '23, in 1923, and the couple had four children, each of whom attended Bridgewater.

Both Wilma Kline Robertson, '47, and her husband, Jesse Robertson, '45, graduated from Bridgewater, as did two of their children, Bonnie Robertson Edwards, '73, and Kris, '83.

E. Harley Kline, '49, currently a member of Bridgewater's Board of Trustees, attended the College, and each of his three daughters, Kathy, '79, Christa, '81, and Ruth, '82, graduated from Bridgewater.

Leon Kline, '51, and his oldest son, D. Earl Kline, '81, both attended Bridgewater, and his youngest son, Eddie, '85, is the most recent Bridgewater graduate of Mr. Kline's grandchildren.

Sylvia Kline Bowman and her husband, James Owen Bowman, both graduated in 1957, and their children Carol

Gift Annuities Continue At High Rates

by William R. Swecker

At the 19th triennial Conference of the Committee on Gift Annuities held in April in New Orleans, the membership voted to retain, in total, the current recommended annuity rates on charitable gifts. These rates, when they were approved in 1983, at the 18th Conference represented the largest overall increase in annuity rates in the 56-year history of that organization.

The astute donor who is also interested in Bridgewater College, as well as in a lifetime income, will find that current gift annuity rates are very competitive in today's market place and represent a more than adequate return on investment.

With Money Market rates plummeting well below the 8% level, the typical charitable gift annuity with Bridgewater College will still return from 7% to 14%.

These figures become particularly significant when one considers that a substantial portion of the annual annuity payment is excluded from taxation. The annuity investment does represent an excellent return on monies invested and in many instances a greater return than is currently available on savings or securities.

In addition, there is a substantial and immediate income tax deduction which is often 30% to 60% of the value of the gift. Should the amount of the deduction exceed 50% of the donor's adjusted gross income, the excess can be spread over the succeeding five years. Also, the annuity income is favorably taxed, usually with about 50% of the annual annuity payments being tax free.

The gift annuity is the most uncomplicated of all life income plans. Instead of requiring a lengthy trust document, the gift annuity with Bridgewater College is a straight forward, one-page agreement between the donor and the institution. The principal sum involved in the gift annuity agreement is placed by the College, in an entirely separate, segregated fund which is backed by the total assets of the institution.

By its very nature, the charitable gift annuity can be tailored to meet a variety of personal and financial objectives such as a guaranteed, stable income for life or for the life of a second person designated by the donor. The annual payment remains constant throughout the donor's life and does not fluctuate with a changing economy.

If appreciated property is used to fund a gift annuity, capital gains taxes are minimized and remaining capital gains owed can be spread over the annuitant's remaining life expectancy.

We urge you to give careful consideration to this excellent and far-reaching gift opportunity. After making your own decision to assist Bridgewater College, the charitable gift annuity becomes a very worthwhile investment.

We at Bridgewater are most hopeful that we will have the opportunity to discuss the charitable gift annuity or other estate-related gift options with each of our supporters. If we can be of help or supply you or your advisors with additional information, please contact the Planned Giving Office at the College, (703) 828-2501, ext. 603.

and Dale graduated in 1981 and 1984, respectively. Their younger daughter, Lavonne, is a rising junior at Bridgewater.

In 1976, Mr. Kline married Prema Bittinger Lipscomb Kline, '30.

In addition to being in the dairy business for more than 65 years, Mr. Kline has been an active member of the Manassas Church of the Brethren. At one time he served as Chairman of the Board of Trustees there.

Family Establishes John B. Wampler Endowed Scholarship Fund

A scholarship fund in memory of John B. Wampler, an alumnus and former trustee of Bridgewater College, has recently been established at the College.

Mr. Wampler's daughters, Joy Wampler Gorden, '53, of Stow, Ohio, and Beverly Wampler Lineweaver, '57, of Blacksburg, along with his widow, Margaret Flory Wampler Rainbolt, '37, have established The John B. Wampler Endowed Scholarship Fund "to assist deserving young people in receiving a higher education which blends Christian idealism and academic excellence."

Earnings from the endowed fund will be used to provide scholarships to students who have achieved satisfactory academic records, demonstrated financial need, and maintained good campus citizenship.

Mr. Wampler attended Bridgewater Academy in the early 1920's, graduating in 1923 with his high school diploma. A farmer and merchant, he was the owner of J. D. Wampler & Sons grocery from 1923 to 1929, when he joined Wampler Feed & Seed Company, Inc. as a partner and secretary-treasurer. This company later formed Wampler Foods, Inc. of Harrisonburg, and Mr. Wampler continued in the position of treasurer of the company until his death in 1981.

Mr. Wampler served on Bridgewater's Board of Trustees from 1958 to 1969. He was a member of the State YMCA Committee for 27 years and of the First Church of the Brethren in Harrisonburg which he served in many capacities, including service on the board of deacons.

Mr. Wampler married twice. In 1928, he married the former Winifred Burtner, who died in 1959. In 1965, he married the former Margaret Flory, currently of Mt. Joy, Pa.

May Day '86

Queen Lisa Moorman, Princess Carolyn Wingrove, King Scott Stinnett, and Prince Duane Dinkel were honored during the May Day Coronation.

Directory Preparation Continues

Beginning in mid-July, the Harris Publishing Company will conduct telephone follow-ups to verify the information to be printed in our Alumni Directory tentatively slated for release in December or January. At the same time, these representatives will be inviting you to order personal copies of the volume.

These telephone calls are follow-ups to the two questionnaires that were sent to all alumni with verified addresses. If you did not receive your questionnaire, please contact the Alumni Office at Bridgewater immediately. We want you included.

The cost of the directory is paid through directory sales with the entire project undertaken at virtually no cost to the College. Bridgewater benefits by having completely updated alumni records, and you benefit by having this information at your finger tips in your own home.

Again, we want our directory to be as complete and up-to-date as possible. If you have not received a questionnaire form, please let us know.

Randall Spoerlein Establishes Endowment

Randall G. Spoerlein of New Windsor, Md., has made a substantial estate commitment to the College, it was announced on Founders Day.

In making the commitment to the College, Mr. Spoerlein established an endowed scholarship as a loving memorial to his wives, Anna Snader Spoerlein and Gretchen Pittinger Spoerlein.

The Randall, Anna Snader, and Gretchen Pittinger Spoerlein Endowment will assist deserving young people from Maryland in receiving a Christian-oriented higher education at Bridgewater College.

Mr. Spoerlein, a native of Accident, Md., completed the two-year business curriculum at Blue Ridge College in New Windsor in 1920. Blue Ridge was a Church of the Brethren-related college that became affiliated with Bridgewater in 1929, and it was at Blue Ridge that he met his first wife, Anna. He has been a life-long member of the Edgewood Church of the Brethren.

A farmer and businessman, Mr. Spoerlein served for 22 years as the mayor of New Windsor and was a member of the Maryland legislature from 1938 to 1942. He also served five years on the New Windsor Town Council and 25 years on the Carroll County Board of Supervisors. He is now retired as Chairman of the Board of the Westminster Bank and Trust Company.

Mr. Spoerlein has served on the Board of Directors of The Carroll County General Hospital since its construction. He was on the Board of The Brethren Insurance Company of Hagerstown for 27 years, and he served a number of years on the Board of the State Fair in Timonium. Mr. Spoerlein served for four years as President of the Carroll County Farm Bureau and for two years as President of the State Farm Bureau. He is the only living original member of the Carroll County Soil and Conservation Commission and also has served on the Carroll County Economic Committee. The first dairy farmer to ship his milk to Washington, D.C., Mr. Spoerlein has served as President of the Maryland Milk Producers Association.

Following the closing of Blue Ridge

College, Mr. Spoerlein became one of Bridgewater's most valued and supportive alumni and friends. In 1984, he received an Outstanding Service Award from the College not only in recognition of this support, but also in recognition of his leadership in his home community.

Mr. Spoerlein's recent pledge will serve as a commitment to Bridgewater's development campaign, Impact/91—A Projection In Excellence.

In announcing Mr. Spoerlein's pledge at the Founders Day Dinner, W. Wallace Hatcher, Chairman of Bridgewater's Board of Trustees and National Chairman for Impact/91, said, "We are extremely pleased to receive this substantial commitment from Randall Spoerlein to be placed in the endowment for student scholarships. All who know him and who knew his wives, Anna and Gretchen, are not surprised at the thoughtfulness and generosity of this man who has given so much to so many."

President Geisert stated of his good friend, "This enduring memorial gift from Mr. Spoerlein is simply another reflection of his love for humanity, his continuing philanthropy, and his abiding faith, not only in Bridgewater College, but in the larger community as well. Mr. Spoerlein deserves the sincerest thanks of all of us who are associated with the College and of the many scholars who will ultimately benefit from his generosity."

One-Act Plays Successful

Recent Graduate Selected As AEI Intern

by Diane Krahe, '86

Most graduates of the Class of 1986 received their diplomas in May with the hope of channelling their broadly-based liberal arts education into a narrower field.

For summa cum laude graduate Gina Popp, a circumstance of "being at the right place at the right time" has led to an exceptional opportunity for her to continue her "broad education."

In March, the Harold H. Hersch Lecture Series committee invited Judith Kipper, a resident fellow at the American Enterprise Institute in Washington, D.C., to Bridgewater's campus. Ms. Kipper's 24-hour stay at Bridgewater, her first visit to the Shenandoah Valley, included both formal lectures and informal conversations concerning her specialty of Middle East issues.

During the lecturer's lunch with approximately 15 students, Gina and Ms. Kipper became acquainted as Gina guided her through the drink room and recommended the salad bar. Following brief introductions of all of the students present, and the luncheon conversation, Ms. Kipper offered Gina the position of acting as her personal intern for the upcoming year.

"Ms. Kipper said, 'We all need people who can talk their way out of trouble,'" Gina recalled. "Then she handed me her card, said 'call me' and ran off to her next appointment."

Since then, the flamboyant and energetic graduate has had a 50-minute telephone interview with Ms. Kipper's current intern, and arrangements have been made for Gina to start her internship at AEI in September.

A daughter of Anita R. Popp of Bluefield, Va., Gina is anxious to experience city life in the nation's capital, and she hopes to begin her graduate work part-time at Georgetown University during her year-long intership.

With a double major in French and English from Bridgewater, and the 1986 Raymond N. Andes Award for Excellence in French under her belt, Gina plans to pursue either linguistics or communications. She believes that her internship with Ms. Kipper in the Middle East studies office of AEI will be "right up (her) alley."

According to Gina, Ms. Kipper's "forté (in dealing with Middle East issues) is communications, getting the parties to the negotiating table and emphasizing culture."

Gina believes that her junior year of study in Strasbourg, France through the Brethren Colleges Abroad program contributed greatly to her qualifications for the position. She added that her involvement in the College's Peace Forum and Young Democrats, as well as her membership in the Leaveners, a women's peace awareness group, also prepared her.

Gina states that Bridgewater, because of its size, offers "a good opportunity for students to excel in any field, especially public speaking." By participating in theatre productions and admissions programs, she feels she has improved her public speaking skills.

The conclusion of Gina's notable college career at Bridgewater included a senior flute recital and an honors project titled Une Adventure en Phonétique. The paper was "an application of a new pedagogical method of teaching French to foreign students, especially Americans," she explained.

Gina considers her liberal arts education at Bridgewater, which included additional concentrations in music and philosophy, to have been a key to her selection as Ms. Kipper's intern. She sees her upcoming opportunity as a chance to broaden her education in her "weak areas" of Eastern thought and political science.

According to Gina, Ms. Kipper does not require a strong background in these disciplines because she "prefers to train her intern herself."

Gina will be the first intern of Ms. Kipper's in four years to graduate from a school other than the University of Pennsylvania.

Although she does not yet know the extent of her duties, Gina does know that she will serve as Ms. Kipper's receptionist, gaining experience in public relations. Some travel is possible although not likely "with the present situation," Gina said. "But you never know . . ."

Gina will also be "ghostwriting" for Ms. Kipper, "researching and writing basic information in her similar style," she said. She will assist Ms. Kipper in coordinating seminars, during which "the specialists discuss problems and present solutions or combinations of solutions," Gina said. "These specialists try to influence those who make policy. Only governments can actually make the policy but the specialists have an important role," she continued, comparing their job to that of a lobbyist representing a broader group.

Gina looks forward to establishing contacts, continuing her education and gaining basic on-the-job experience at the American Enterprise Institute. "Their motto is 'You cannot have a free society without competition of ideas,' and I believe it," she said.

Bridgewater

Middle East Expert Lectures On Campus

Judith Kipper discusses her views with students, community members, and faculty.

"Americans have a tremendous passion with the Middle East," Judith Kipper told an audience of students, faculty, administration, and community members in Cole Hall in early March.

"The names and places have permeated our consciousness since the beginning of childhood," she continued. "We are attached emotionally, politically, and spiritually."

Ms. Kipper visited Bridgewater as the fourth annual Harold H. Hersch Lecturer. A specialist in Middle East affairs and a Resident Fellow of the American Enterprise Institute in Washington, D.C. since 1980, she had recently returned from a six-week trip to the Middle East. While there she had met with leaders and academics from many of the countries who have become personal friends as a result of her frequent visits to the region.

She shared her knowledge of the area and its people in two lectures, "Prospects for the Middle East Peace Process" and "Political Culture and U.S. Policy in the Middle East," and in question-and-answer sessions and small group and individual discussions during her two-day stay on campus. Ms. Kipper also was interviewed for the April program of the College's monthly television program, "Bridgewater College Presents."

In speaking about the Middle East, Ms. Kipper described it as a "loving, warm, interesting place. We don't see that," she continued, explaining that while most of what the American press reports is accurate, it is the sensational news and not the everyday occurrences.

"In terms of daily life," she said, "crime is unknown. It's safer on a day-to-day basis" in most Middle East countries than in the United States.

She also is concerned that Americans aren't sensitive and understanding of ways of life that are different from their own. "We can't have the attitude that we're better," she said. "We aren't better or worse—just different, and it is in our own interest to be sensitive to other people's ways of life."

Ms. Kipper outlined the three major Middle East conflicts as being between Iran and Iraq, the Arab states and Israel, and the Palestinians and Israelis. She believes that the various leaders "could compromise if they could sit down at a conference table together" and is concerned about the stalemate that has resulted from the Palestine Liberation Organization's unwillingness to participate in an international conference set up by King Hussein of Jordan and Israel's Prime Minister Paris.

According to Ms. Kipper, the "peace process is at a critical transition point," with several directions possible, the worst being another Arab-Israeli war.

She attributes much of the Arab problem to economic deprivation, a result of near constant warfare, and the unusually young age of the population. Ms. Kipper said that 50-60 percent of Arabs are under the age of 20, largely because of the thousands of people killed in recent wars.

In Egypt, 50 million people live on three percent of the land, and the oil-rich nations such as Saudi Arabia are feeling the economic recession and the drop in oil prices.

Additional unrest is found in Jordan, Syria, and Israel, an area in turmoil for decades.

Of the 21 Arab countries, the United States has diplomatic foreign relations with all but two, South Yemen and Libya, she said, adding that the United States needs to maintain good relations with all of the nations. Ms. Kipper said that the people of these countries look to the United States for a certain standing and are impressed that "human dignity is not reserved for ruling elites in the United States."

Ms. Kipper said that as a nation we must be careful of the way we help Middle East nations, being friendly without being overbearing. She said that this is especially important because in the Third World the people have a hard time dealing with forces of change. "We need to be very solid and very steady as our friends go through these periods," she said.

Prior to her work at the AEI, Ms. Kipper spent five years as a freelance Middle East specialist based in New York writing for European and American publications. She also has been a member of the political staff of the late Senator Robert Kennedy, has served as a news assistant to CBS anchorman Walter Cronkite in New York, and was a foreign affairs assistant to the news-weekly L'Express for six years in Paris.

Ms. Kipper has authored numerous articles on current events in the Middle East and currently is co-editing a book on new directions in American foreign policy with former Assistant Secretary of State Harold H. Saunders, the only other Resident Fellow at AEI specializing in Middle East affairs.

Bridgewater's annual Hersch Lectures are sponsored by the Harold H. Hersch Educational Fund. The fund was established by the estate of the late Hersch, a 1951 Bridgewater graduate and Manassas attorney, and through contributions by his friends and family following his death in 1980.

Past Hersch lecturers have been Paul C. Warnke, Ben J. Wattenberg, and Ernest W. Lefever.

Students Push For Hueston Scholarship Fund

Prof. Hueston reminds Jim Keeler of his student days.

Student members of Bridgewater's business club, Phi Beta Lambda, decided this past spring that they wanted to do something to honor accounting professor Bob Hueston on the occasion of his retirement from Bridgewater College. The idea that formed was to suggest that funds be solicited by the College for the purpose of establishing an endowed scholarship with Prof. Hueston's name on it. Thus, the Robert L. Hueston Endowed Scholarship Fund was founded.

Bridgewater alumnus James L. Keeler, '57, Vice Chairman of the Board of Trustees for Development and Public Relations, says that Bob Hueston was personally responsible for providing him with the motivation and desire to become a C.P.A. Keeler, who also is an attorney, formally announced the scholarship fund in early May at the College's annual Awards Convocation to a standing ovation by Bridgewater students and faculty. Phi Beta Lambda president, senior Greg Dorsey presented Mr. Keeler with a check from the club for the scholarship drive.

Since the idea's inception, many local accounting and business alumni have been approached with the idea of the scholarship and, according to Development Director Brydon M. DeWitt, "those people initially contacted were very positive and readily supportive."

The campaign, which began in earnest in late April, has made significant strides toward reaching its goal of raising a minimum of $10,000 for the scholarship to become a reality.

When fully funded, the earnings will be used to assist a rising senior accounting major who shows exceptional promise in the field of accounting and demonstrates good campus citizenship.

Business and accounting alumni are currently being solicited for the scholarship by Mr. Keeler and Martha Anderson Armstrong, '77, Assistant Professor of Accounting and Business Administration at Bridgewater and adviser to Phi Beta Lambda, who also is a former student of Prof. Hueston's.

"We are well on our way to achieving this goal," said Mr. DeWitt. "It is gratifying to see the interest and enthusiasm of so many of Professor Hueston's former students as soon as they find out about what's been started here."

Prof. Hueston, who is the only person to hold the Carman G. Blough Chair of Accounting at Bridgewater, has headed the College's accounting program for the past 33 years. President Geisert once said of him, "Professor Hueston has an outstanding record as a teacher of accounting. Many accountants in our area are his former students and hold him in very high regard. He is a very productive accounting professor."

Prof. Hueston earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in economics and business administration from Bethany College in West Virginia and an MBA from the University of Wisconsin. A certified public accountant, he established his own Harrisonburg accounting firm in 1953 after working for three years at Bethany College and then serving two years as a staff accountant for S. B. Hoover & Co., Certified Public Accountants. While serving as a part-time professor at Bridgewater, Prof. Hueston continued to work as a full-time accountant until his recent retirement. After doing some traveling, he will continue to do accounting work in Harrisonburg on a part-time basis.

Prof. Hueston is the father of Bridgewater alumna Agness Hueston Henderson, '80.

Retired Prof

Although Dr. Lowell Heisey retired from the Bridgewater faculty in January, his days in the classroom are far from over. In fact, Dr. Heisey's sense of wanderlust and his desire to promote "better understanding" internationally have prompted him to take on a new challenge as an educator.

In August, Dr. Heisey and his wife, Hazel, will leave for Liberia with a Fulbright Teaching Fellowship in hand. The former B.C. chemistry department head will be teaching undergraduate level chemistry at Cuttington University College during the 1986-87 academic year. The university is located in Suacoco, a small town 125 miles from Liberia's capital city of Monrovia.

Founded by the Episcopal Church, Cuttington is a prestigious institution which "draws students from all over Africa, including many government workers," Dr. Heisey said.

The foreign students attending Cuttington have largely been educated in private schools in urban environments while the native Liberians' educational background is less advanced. The "span between the two" types of students will provide a new element for American professors, Dr. Heisey said.

Dr. Heisey pauses in his office at Bowman Hall.

Receives Fulbright Teaching Fellowship

by Diane Krahe, '86

Dr. Heisey's Fulbright funded lectureship is one of four in Liberia, but he will be the only American professor at Cuttington under this program. The Fulbright program offers "an amazing number of teaching positions, mostly in the Third World, but competition for these grants is keen," Dr. Heisey said.

The Fulbright program is the United States government's primary education exchange program, proposed by the former U.S. Senator J. William Fulbright in the wake of World War II. In its effort to increase knowledge and understanding between nationalities, the program aims to "develop a capacity for empathy, a distaste for killing other men, and an inclination for peace," said the former Senator. The exchange is funded by both U.S. Congressional appropriations and the governments of 27 other countries.

Selection of professors to take part in the program is based on their credentials in their discipline and their proficiency in the language of the country in which they will be teaching. The official language of Liberia is English. The country was originally founded by returning U.S. slaves after the Civil War, so Liberia has received "more American influence than European," Dr. Heisey said. Its government remains a dictatorship, he added.

Located along the west coast of Africa and close to the Equator, Liberia's climate is humid with "even temperatures year-round," the Heiseys said. Mining is the country's main export and agricultural production, primarily peanuts, corn, and rice, is abundant.

"The town of Suacoco itself is sophisticated," Dr. Heisey said, "but the surrounding area is rural." Electricity is available only 12 hours a day, and the community water supply is filtered and sterilized. All washing is done by hand, and garments must be ironed to kill parasites, Mrs. Heisey said.

The Heiseys will live in the house reserved for the Fulbright American professor and his family, and the accommodations include the services of a houseboy.

Mrs. Heisey said that some sort of community work is usually planned for the professor's wife, but at this time her only known duties are "daily chores."

During the three-month break between semesters, the Heiseys plan to travel around the continent to see its wildlife and to learn about the social conditions of the African people. Such traveling in exotic lands is not a new experience for the couple. Dr. Heisey was born in China, a son of missionaries, and he lived his first 11 years in the Orient. The Heiseys returned with Wendell Flory, '40, to visit China in 1983.

In March, Dr. and Mrs. Heisey traveled to Peru to see Halley's Comet. Dr. Heisey had hoped to take a group of Bridgewater students during interterm, but the comet was behind the sun during the month of February. Instead, the Heiseys went with a group of senior citizens.

The Heiseys viewed the comet from Arequipa, "the White City of Peru," located in an open desert area which has received "no rain for 10 centuries or something like that," Dr. Heisey said. They also explored the history and culture of Peru and "fell in love with the big mountains and picturesque valleys," Mrs. Heisey recalled. The Heiseys met members of the Yagua tribe at the headwaters of the Amazon River and shared the marketplaces of mountain villages with Peruvian Indians dressed in colorful outfits.

Dr. and Mrs. Heisey explored the Inca ruins, including the Inca capital of Machupicchu, discovered only in 1910. The group also visited a wildlife preserve, observing the llama and its close camel-like relatives, as well as the giant condor with its 12-foot wingspan.

From an airplane, the Heiseys viewed the Nazca lines, mammoth religious symbols which were engraved in the desert by prehistoric tribes and that are visible only from the air.

Dr. Heisey has taught at Bridgewater since 1950 in the fields of chemistry, astronomy, geography, and science education. He helped in the design and construction of Bowman Hall in 1953-54, and he has conducted research in cancer medication during his years at B.C.

The Heiseys' children, Galen, '71, Maylee, Loren, and Curtis, have each pursued a career in an aspect of science.

Dr. and Mrs. Heisey hope their year-long experience in Africa is "an interesting adventure in a Third World culture." Their goal is to contribute to the improvement of the African's "educational standards and living conditions."

In the spirit of the Fulbright program, the Heiseys aim to "learn a lot from (the African people) and share with them" our common humanity.

Faculty And Staff Accompl

Mrs. Martha S. Armstrong was recently promoted to Assistant Professor of Accounting and Business Administration upon receiving her certificate of Certified Public Accountant. Mrs. Armstrong also holds a B.A. degree in business administration from Bridgewater and an M.S. degree in accounting from the University of Virginia.

Miss Karen L. Atkin, who held the position of Resident Director Advisor throughout the past two years, will assume the position of Assistant Dean for Student Development beginning July 1 succeeding Miss Leigh Ann Duff who plans to be married this summer and will relocate.

Miss M. Ellen Bailey, Assistant Professor of Education, has been elected to a two-year term as President of the Beta Xi Chapter of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society, International, an educational honorary professional society for women. Miss Bailey has been active in Delta Kappa Gamma for approximately 20 years and has served in various offices. She is a charter member of the Beta Xi Chapter, one of two chapters in the area.

Dr. John G. Barr, Professor of Organ and Piano, has been selected to serve as Conference Organist for the 1986 Annual Conference of the Church of the Brethren.

Miss Bailey talks with senior Connie Glembo about her education projects.

Dr. John W. Cooper, Dean for Academic Affairs and Associate Professor of Philosophy and Religion, has published a book, written a number of articles, and has lectured extensively throughout the academic year.

In October, Dr. Cooper's book titled The Theology of Freedom: The Legacy of Jacques Maritain and Reinhold Niebuhr was published by Mercer University Press. The book attempts to describe the relationship between religion and politics and to show how both Protestant and Roman Catholic theologies are compatible with democratic society. An article titled "Democratic Pluralism and Human Rights: The Political Theologies of Jacques Maritain and Reinhold Niebuhr," which relates to Cooper's recent book, may be found in Jacques Maritain: A Philosopher in the World, a recent book edited by Jean-Louis Allard.

His article titled "The Moral Basis of Equal Opportunity" was published in the September edition of Educational Leadership. In November, he delivered a public lecture in Rockford, Ill., on the topic "The American Family Today." He is also the author of a section in a book titled Morality of the Market: Religion and Economic Prospective which was published in December.

Dr. Cooper published a book review titled "Defrocking Dogmas" of Polity and Praxis by Dennis McCann and Charles Strain in the February 7th issue of the National Catholic Reporter. In March, he delivered a lecture titled "Religion and the Capitalism-Socialism Debate" at the Radford University Colloquium in Philosophy and Religion and, in April, he presented two papers, "Theological Perspectives on Capitalism and Socialism" and "A Just War Approach to Peacemaking." The first was given at the University of Notre Dame, South Bend, Ind., and the second to an On Earth Peace Conference in New Windsor, Md. On Earth Peace will publish in booklet form the remarks of each of the speakers at the conference which was titled "Searching for Unity Among Peacemakers." The University of Notre Dame will publish Dr. Cooper's remarks in a book of proceedings of the conference.

Dr. Joseph M. Crockett, Associate Professor of Chemistry, was appointed to the Executive Committee of the Virginia Section of the American Chemical Society. He served as a judge at the Virginia Junior Academy of Science meeting at James Madison University. Dr. Crockett also administered the first-round test for the International Chemical Olympiad and attended conferences at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.

Mr. Brydon M. DeWitt, Director of Development, is currently serving as President-Elect of the Harrisonburg-Rockingham County Chamber of Commerce. Mr. DeWitt will become President of the Chamber in January, 1987. He is also serving this year as Chairman of the Long-Range Planning Committee.

Dr. Barr assists sophomore David Gordon during a music examination.

Dr. Paul J. Bender, Professor of Mathematics, was appointed Chairman of the Department of Mathematics and Computer Science in the fall, succeeding Professor John E. White who resigned the chairmanship for health reasons. Professor White continues to carry all of his teaching responsibilities. Dr. Bender has, for five consecutive years, served as a national reader of advanced placement examinations in mathematics for the Educational Testing Service at Princeton, N.J.

Dr. Emmert F. Bittinger, Professor of Sociology, has accepted appointment as Chairman of the Department of Sociology for the upcoming academic year. He will succeed Professor William E. Barnett, who has retired.

He also presented a paper titled "European Origins of the Brethren" before the Eighth Annual Meeting of the Brethren Encyclopedia, Inc., in November. Dr. Bittinger read a paper on the subject of "The Meaning of Old Order Dress in the 1980s" at a conference of scholars and historians from various Brethren denominations in Covington, Ohio, last summer.

Dr. Charles J. Churchman, Professor of English, and his wife, Pat, will be serving as Directors of the Brethren Colleges Abroad program at the Dalian Institute of Foreign Languages in Dalian, China for the 1986-87 academic year.

Dr. Churchman published a guest editorial in the July 27th edition of the Harrisonburg Daily News-Record titled "When Men Change, Nations Change." The article was a personal reflection on the International Moral Rearmament Conference which Dr. Churchman attended in Washington, D.C., on July 17-19, 1985.

ish Much Throughout Year

Dr. Wayne F. Geisert, President, served as Chairman of the Visiting Teams of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS) at Samford University, Birmingham, Ala. He completed his term as President of the Council of Independent Colleges of Virginia, and was elected Chairman of the Church of the Brethren Committee of Higher Education at the committee's meeting in Washington, D.C. The committee meets semi-annually directing attention to the cooperative endeavors of the Church of the Brethren colleges and seminary, including the Brethren Colleges Abroad Program.

Dr. Lowell V. Heisey, Professor of Chemistry, Emeritus, has received a Fulbright Teaching Fellowship to spend the 1986-87 academic year in Liberia, where he will teach chemistry at Cuttington University College in Suacoco. Dr. Heisey retired in January after 36 years of teaching at Bridgewater College.

Miss Mary Frances Heishman, Assistant Professor of Physical Education, has been selected to serve on the N.C.A.A. Committee on Committees for the 1986-87 school year.

Dr. L. Michael Hill, Professor of Biology, published an article titled "A Taxonomic Key to the Geraniaceae of Virginia" in the February edition of Jeffersonia, The Journal of Virginia Botany. The article concerned chromosome numbers of the wild geraniums found within Virginia. He is also Chairman of a steering committee to form a chapter of the Virginia Wildflower Preservation Society in the central Shenandoah Valley.

Mr. Jesse E. Hopkins, Jr., Associate Professor of Music, has been chosen to serve as the Conference Choir Director for the 1986 Annual Conference of the Church of the Brethren. As director, one of his special responsibilities has been coordinating the conference's multi-media production of "One Bright Morning."

Prof. Hopkins chats with Mark Riddle prior to baccalaureate.

Mr. David C. Huffman, Assistant Professor of Economics, presented a paper titled "Community Bargaining Over Plants—An Auction Market Approach" at the Annual Meeting of the Virginia Association of Economists in April at Virginia Beach.

Mr. Curtis L. Kendall, Head Baseball Coach, was named Old Dominion Athletic Conference Baseball Coach-of-the-Year. He also was selected Virginia College Division Coach-of-the-Year by the Virginia Sports Information Directors from among all Division II and III schools in the state.

Dr. Thomas M. Kinder, Professor of Physical Education and Director of Athletics, continues to serve on the N.C.A.A. Council, the policy-establishing body of the National Collegiate Athletic Association. He also remains on the N.C.A.A. Division III Steering Committee.

Dr. James J. Kirkwood, Professor of English, and his wife, Shirley, recently returned to their home and to Bridgewater after serving as directors of the Brethren Colleges Abroad Program in Cheltenham, England during the 1985-86 academic year.

Mr. Paul M. Kline, Associate Professor of Art, was the recipient of a $700 Mednick Memorial Fund Grant administered by the Virginia Foundation for Independent Colleges in order to assist in the financial obligations of his sabbatical leave which began in the spring and continued into the summer. During this sabbatical leave, Prof. Kline traveled abroad to study first-hand the art of ancient Greece and to photograph hundreds of art pieces which will be added to the Art Department's library for use in the ancient history portion of the Art History course.

In January, he exhibited a solo art show in the Alternative Gallery of the Roanoke Museum of Fine Arts titled "Circles-Squares." The solo exhibit was made up of nine sculptures of mixed media which were all painted with metallic gold, silver, and bronze paints.

Professor Kline served as the Chairman of The Arts Committee for both the Outdoor Show and the Mural Competition during the Bridgewater Sesquicentennial Celebration in August. In October, he exhibited two painted wood constructions at the Portsmouth (Va.) Museum of Fine Arts as part of an invitational group show titled "Contemporary Sculpture By Virginia Artists."

Dr. M. Ellsworth Kyger, Professor of German, has completed the manuscript for An English-Pennsylvania German Dictionary: A Working Manuscript, vols. II-III-IV of "The Russel W. Gilbert Series of Pennsylvania German Dialect Publications," described by Frederick S. Weiser, the editor, as "the single most comprehensive dictionary involving Pennsylvania Dutch." The entire four-volume series is expected to be in print by December. It is the first attempt at compiling a comprehensive English-Pennsylvania German dictionary and has been in progress since 1969. Dr. Kyger's contribution alone covers some 2,300 pages and approximately 55,000 words.

Dr. Barbara P. Long, Assistant Professor of Foreign Languages, gave a presentation to the Virginia Department of Education State Conference at Virginia Beach titled "Oral Communication Activities: Trivial Pursuits That Work" in October. In April, Dr. Long gave a workshop on writing at the Northeast Conference for the Teaching of Foreign Languages held in Washington, D.C. The subject of the workshop was "The Participatory Classroom: A Key to Effective Written Communication."

She gave two presentations on "Writing in the Foreign Language Classroom" at the High Point College Foreign Language Conference in March. The first was a paper titled "Writing for Proficiency" which explained how to incorporate writing as a process into the classroom and the need for a holistic grading approach. The second was a workshop titled "Let's Be Creative" in which participants wrote short stories and poetry and received a booklet of creative writing ideas. She conducted an in-service workshop for foreign language teachers of Augusta County titled "Oral Communication Activities for the Foreign Language Classroom" in September.

Mr. Ralph C. MacPhail, Jr., Associate Professor of Drama, Speech, and English, was cited in the August publication of The Mikado, A Centenary Celebration in appreciation for his assistance in planning the exhibition commemorating the 100th anniversary of Gilbert & Sullivan's The Mikado. He has been invited to speak at the W. S. Gilbert Sesquicentennial Symposium at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology which will be held in November. The Symposium is sponsored by the New England Branch of the Gilbert and Sullivan Society of London and the M.I.T. Council for the Arts and is expected to draw Cambridge Savoyards and Gilbertians from the United States, Canada, and Great Britain. Prof. MacPhail will speak on Gilbert's attitudes toward Shakespeare and Victorian Shakespearean production.

The State Department of Education has asked Professor MacPhail to serve on an Editorial Committee which will revise, refine, and prepare for publication a manuscript titled Helping Students Learn: Group Discussion Concepts and Activities. Prof. MacPhail will take part in this special panel during the last week in June.

Miss Laura S. Mapp, Associate Professor of Physical Education, received two outstanding awards pertaining to her 25-year coaching career at Bridgewater College. She was named the Old Dominion Athletic Conference Women's Basketball Coach-of-the-Year in February and, in March, was awarded the first annual Carol Eckman Award by the Women's Basketball Coaches Association in Lexington, Kentucky. Coach Mapp has more career wins than any other active N.C.A.A. Division III women's basketball coach in the country. The Carol Eckman Award was named for the women's basketball coach who was instrumental in organizing the first National Invitation Women's Basketball Tournament in 1969. Miss Mapp was selected on the basis of her "demonstration of the values and character of Carol Eckman, which include sportsmanship, honesty, courage, ethical behavior, dedication to purpose and commitment to the student-athlete." Eckman died of cancer in July, 1985.

Dr. John W. Martin, Jr., Professor of Chemistry, Emeritus, and his wife, Betty, have moved to Cheltenham, England, where they are serving as directors of the Brethren Colleges Abroad Program for the upcoming 1986-87 academic year.

Dr. W. Robert McFadden, Professor of Religion, is participating in "A Summer Institute in Near East Archaeology" during the months of June and July, 1986. The Institute is sponsored by the National Endowment for the Humanities and is offered by the American Schools of Oriental Research in Philadelphia, Pa. The Institute will focus on the archaeological history of Syria-Palestine and will be taught by four acknowledged leaders in the field of archaeology and Near Eastern scholarship. Dr. McFadden published a book review on Lives of Jesus by Warren S. Kissinger in the winter issue of Brethren Life and Thought.

Dr. David K. McQuilkin, Associate Professor of History and Political Science, lectured during the months of April and May as the Ann Barron Carroll Lecturer at Stuart Hall, a preparatory school for girls in Staunton, Va. Among the varied topics which he examined were the Watergate crisis, American political parties, and reform movements of the twentieth century.

Dr. McQuilkin also served as a judge on "Pop Quiz" on the public television station WVPT-TV for the 1985-86 academic year. He appeared on the same station in both January and March on "Bridgewater College Presents," the college's monthly television program. The topic for his first guest appearance was "Economic and Political Projections for '86" and, during the second appearance, he and two students discussed their Interterm trip to the Soviet Union.

Miss Naomi L. Mills, Assistant Professor of Physical Education and Director of Swimming, has been chosen to serve on the 1987 International Special Olympics (Virginia Delegation) Selection Committee. She, along with other members, was responsible for reviewing the nominations of athletes and coaches and for selecting the candidates who were observed during the State Special Olympics games held in Richmond on June 6-8. She will also serve as the Area Coordinator for the event.

In February, Miss Mills conducted an in-service training session on Outdoor Education for Physical Education Teachers of Rockingham County and served as the Aquatics Clinician for the Virginia Special Olympics Training School which was conducted at James Madison University. In May, she was elected Vice-Chairman of the Harrisonburg-Rockingham County Chapter of the Red Cross Board of Directors where she is currently serving a term as a member of the board.

Mr. Lamar B. Neal, Associate Professor of Political Science and History, gave a public lecture on "The Development of the Free Enterprise System in the U.S.—Some Constitutional Considerations" during Free Enterprise Week on the campus of James Madison University in November. The week of activities was sponsored by the Gamma Lambda Chapter of Phi Beta Lambda.

Mr. Robert E. Purvis, Associate Professor of Art, has had a sculpture titled Bear/Engine (4998) included in "Sculpture Tour 1985-86" at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville. The outdoor exhibit features 21 sculptures selected from the South and Midwest. Professor Purvis' exhibit was a monolithic sculpture combining gneiss and painted steel plate and was completed as part of his sabbatical project last summer. Following a year at the University of Tennessee, the sculpture works will be installed on the campus of Walters State Community College in Morristown, Tenn., for the 1986-87 academic year.

Dr. Roger E. Sappington, Professor of History, compiled and edited a source book on the development of the Church of the Brethren from 1865 to 1915 which was published in January by The Brethren Press. This volume, titled The Brethren in Industrial America, is the second of four volumes to be edited by Dr. Sappington on Brethren History, and is his ninth published book. Dr. Sappington was also listed in the 1985 edition of Marquis' Who's Who in Religion, which includes church officials, clergy, religious educators, and lay leaders.

Dr. Sappington is continuing his research on the Brethren in Tennessee, a project begun by the late Dr. Paul H. Bowman, Bridgewater's third president. When complete this research will be the first and only published work of its kind.

Mrs. Grace F. Steinberg, Assistant Professor of Home Economics, has been elected First Vice President of the Virginia Home Economics Association. One of her special responsibilities will be the planning of the program for the next VHEA annual meeting.

Dr. Sarah E. Swank, Associate Professor of Biology, is currently engaged in full-time research under a grant from the National Science Foundation to study chaparral ecosystems with Dr. Walter C. Oechel of San Diego State University. In order to participate in this research, Dr. Swank has been granted a one-year leave of absence for the 1986-87 year.

Dr. Dale V. Ulrich, Provost, published a report describing the development of The Brethren Encyclopedia in the summer edition of Brethren Life and Thought. Dr. Ulrich has served as secretary of the Board of Directors of Brethren Encyclopedia, Inc., since its formation. Recently Dr. Ulrich completed six years on the Board of On Earth Peace, four years as its President.

Mrs. Louise H. Wade, part-time Instructor in Special Education, served as a consultant on a federally-funded project in Greene County, Va. She conducted an in-service training workshop for the county's teachers and helped develop curriculum materials for grades 5, 6, and 7 in science and mathematics.

Mr. Edwin E. Will, Staff Assistant for the College's National Direct Student Loan Program, serves as the Area III Coordinator for the Citizen Representation Program (Consumer Affairs Section) of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP). The program is designed to place qualified older citizens on state and local boards and commissions which make decisions affecting the health, safety, and economic well-being of consumers, especially the elderly. Mr. Will's work has involved him in meetings in Texas, West Virginia, Maryland, North Carolina, Arkansas, and Washington, D.C. throughout the academic year. A member of the Blue Ridge Community College Board of Trustees, he has served as a delegate to meetings of the Virginia Community College Association and Virginia Community College System in Charlottesville and Roanoke.

Weimer Lecturer Advocates Nonviolent Sanctions

The visiting lecturer for the College's third annual Weimer Christian Vocation of Peace and Peacemaking Lecture, Dr. Gene Sharp, strongly advocated nonviolent struggle as an alternative to war when he spoke at Bridgewater in early April.

Dr. Sharp is Director of the Program on Nonviolent Sanctions in Conflict and Defense and an Associate of Harvard University's Center for International Affairs. He also is a Professor in the Department of Political Science and in the Department of Sociology and Anthropology at Southeastern Massachusetts University.

He stated that there is "no blueprint of nonviolent means for all situations." But some examples of nonviolent struggle which he suggested are economic boycotts, demonstrations, underground communication networks, and resistance groups. He noted that each situation must be known intimately and then the symptoms of the problem can be addressed. Then, and only then, can nonviolence be used as an effective tool for overcoming political injustice and securing government by consent.

Dr. Sharp argued that much more attention and financial resources should be directed toward nonviolent means of political struggle. He noted that each year the United States expenditures on NATO alone have equalled the national debt for that year, and that military expenditures have created many of the current economic problems in this country. He cited the Polish dissenters as an example of a resistance group that has done more without U.S. funds than those receiving U.S. backing such as the

Dr. Sharp poses with junior Barry Sprigg, Nancy Weimer Cappel, and Peter Weimer.

Afghanistan rebels. Ironically, the two groups are at odds with the same superpower—the Soviet Union.

"We have to learn how to increase further the effectiveness of nonviolent struggle," Sharp said. He would like to spread the word about this alternative to warfare in the Soviet Union, Central America, South Africa, and the Middle East.

In his address titled "National Defense Without War," Dr. Sharp said that there is nothing wrong with defense—it just doesn't have to be sought through acts of war. He cited the example of the Philippine people who acted without warfare or terrorism to bring about a different government and a different way of life. The Philippine people used nonviolent forms of struggle such as economic boycotts, mutiny, and their support of Corizon Aquino to force Marcos to flee his homeland as a powerless leader.

"This is not a call for disarmament," Dr. Sharp said, "but rather for transarmament. Transarmament, he said, is a whole new approach, but not one of powerlessness.

To advocates of nuclear buildup, Dr. Sharp said, "Nuclear weapons do not bring you greater safety—they bring you greater danger. Those without nuclear weapons do not expect attack by nuclear weapons and are not targeted for nuclear attack."

Dr. Sharp also spoke on the topic "Beyond 'Just War' and Pacifism." He criticized pacifism as being unrealistic for an entire nation and "just war" as a policy leading to the use of violence and the inevitable result: "masses of dead, destruction, and war . . ."

He also suggested that "political success does not always follow a military success," so even "just war" can be useless. There are "social, economic, and political consequences of violence," and we "need to abolish war," he said. According to Dr. Sharp, war doesn't work now as it did in previous decades because today's armies have greater capacity for mass killing and destruction.

Pacifism is feasible for individual belief and personal practice, Sharp said, but it is not a practical alternative for a whole country.

Sharp also said that we "have a responsibility to seek to influence the course of events" and that "conflicts are inevitable and sometimes good," as in the case of the overthrow of a corrupt government. Thus, "it is no longer enough to have just two choices—"just war" and pacifism. We must consider the consequences of choice and take responsibility," Dr. Sharp said.

"Rulers and governments depend on the cooperation and obedience of the society and citizens," Dr. Sharp said. "If the regime is not considered legitimate and if the people don't serve and cooperate, and if the police and army don't work, then the top person loses power and is no more deserving of obedience than anyone else." According to Dr. Sharp, leaders are not intrinsically more powerful people—they are given that power, and that power can be taken away.

"Let 'just war' advocates and pacifists unite to come up with nonviolent means of resistance," Dr. Sharp urged. "Under today's circumstances, we need to develop new means of nonviolent struggle and new alternatives to war."

The Weimer Christian Vocation of Peace and Peacemaking Lectureship was established at Bridgewater in 1982 in honor of the late Reverend Glen Weimer, a Church of the Brethren pastor. The lectureship has as its goal the promotion of peace and the stimulation of creative thought concerning conflict resolution. It is supported through an endowment provided by the Rev. Glen and Clarabel Weimer, their family and friends.

Jopson Field Renovations Underway

Work has begun on a major renovation and improvement of Jopson Field, the College's outdoor athletic facility that was severely damaged last November by flood waters from the North River.

Among the planned improvements are permanent bleachers for football and track and for baseball, softball, and field hockey/lacrosse along with resurfacing of the all-weather track and tennis courts, and the regrading and seeding of the playing fields for each of the outdoor sports.

The bleachers for football, track, and baseball will be all-steel constructions, while the softball and field hockey/lacrosse bleachers will be built of wood. The steel bleachers that will be built on the football field will seat 2500 spectators on the new home side of the field. They will be constructed to take advantage of the natural slope on the north side of the field and will include a press box. Seating for 500 spectators will be built on the visitors side. The bleachers at the baseball field will also seat 500 spectators.

The College will also be replacing the fencing which delineates the various fields, will be installing new football goalposts, and will be adding other miscellaneous items of equipment. Most noticeable will be four new electronic scoreboards, one for each of the fields.

Bridgewater's fields, which were rendered unusable for the remainder of this year, are being regraded and seeded during the summer recess.

The infields for the Eagles' baseball and softball fields are being constructed in consultation with the head groundskeeper at Baltimore's Memorial Stadium. A dugout to replace the one that was lost down river during the night of the flooding has already been built, and the backstops and batting cages will be replaced this summer.

Tarps cover the new scoreboards scheduled for each of the four fields.

"This is a major undertaking for us," Dr. Geisert commented, "but the planned improvements will be first class. When the facility is completed, it will be one of the finest of its kind among Division III athletic programs in the middle-Atlantic states. None of this would be possible without the continuing generous support of our constituencies"

The projected cost of the Jopson Field project is estimated at $445,000 and is scheduled for completion prior to the beginning of the 1986-87 academic year.

College To Begin Softball Program

The Bridgewater College athletic program will expand to 14 sports with the initiation of women's fast pitch softball during the 1986-87 academic year. The Eagles will compete as a club team during the inaugural season. Directing the development of the program is Dan Antolik, who recently joined the College's physical education and coaching staff.

"We have had some real interest in women's softball among our students," explained Athletic Director Dr. Thomas Kinder on the decision to add a sixth sport to the women's program. "It will be an asset to the overall women's program and, if successful, we plan to move to intercollegiate competition."

The Old Dominion Athletic Conference, of which Bridgewater is a charter member, does not sponsor participation in women's softball. According to Kinder, ODAC members Lynchburg College and Eastern Mennonite College already support fast pitch programs and Mary Baldwin College plans to move from slow pitch to the up tempo variety. With the addition of B.C. softball, the goal is to have conference competition beginning in 1988.

Director of Admissions Brian Hildebrand views the new Bridgewater sport as a positive influence on the institution. "It is extremely important that the College keep pace with the needs of our young women as they search for a college home," stated Hildebrand. "Interest in intercollegiate softball is growing rapidly in popularity in our recruiting area, especially in Virginia and Pennsylvania," he added. There is also a strong following of the sport in the local high school districts.

The playing field will be built adjacent to the baseball diamond as part of the Jopson Field flood repair/renovation project.

Sand and silt from the flood was removed to allow for the sod to take root on the football field.

Antolik Hired As Head Football Coach

Daniel Antolik, head football coach for the Division II Tigers of Saint Paul's College from 1982-85, has accepted the position of head football coach at Bridgewater.

Antolik, a native of Pennsylvania, succeeds Joseph E. Bush who resigned from the position to accept the head coaching position at ODAC-rival Hampden-Sydney College.

Coach Antolik came to Bridgewater highly recommended as a successful coach at both the secondary and the college and university levels. During his tenure at Saint Paul's, Antolik played the key role in the tremendous improvement of the Tigers' Division II program. In 1983, he was honored as both the Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association Co-Coach-of-the-Year and the Washington, D.C. Pigskin Club's Coach-of-the-Year for leading the Tigers to a 7-3 season.

Prior to his head coaching position at Saint Paul's, Antolik served on the coaching staff of Fort Lewis College (Colorado), New Mexico Highlands University (New Mexico), and Salem College (West Virginia). He had earlier been head football coach in secondary schools in both Colorado and North Carolina.

He has spent several summers organizing and administering football clinics and camps for young people, recruiting athletes, and soliciting funds.

Antolik most recently was working as an assistant football coach at Virginia Union University.

Antolik attended North Braddock High School in Pittsburgh where he lettered in football and baseball, served as captain of the football team, and was a member of the All-Conference Team. His undergraduate degree was earned at Fort Lewis College where he lettered in football, was chosen the most valuable player (1967), and served as team captain in 1968. His Master of Arts degree in physical education was completed in 1973 at Adams State College in Alamosa, Colo.

In commenting on Antolik's appointment, President Geisert noted, "Coach Antolik has indicated that throughout his tenure in college level coaching, he has had the goal of being the head coach at a liberal arts college such as Bridgewater. We are delighted that he has accepted the invitation to head our football program."

Alumni Return For "Jopmen" Track Meet

Ken Economou, '71, and Mike Quinn, '68, warm up for the Alumni Track Meet held in May. Tom Gross, '83, and Roger Stultz, '71, wait their turn as Pat Domeier, '79, participated in the long jump.

Baseball Team Ranked Nationally

Eagles Repeat As ODAC Champions

The Eagles have always prided their small college baseball program as one of the southeast's finest. This spring, following years of winning records, the Eagles began to earn a bit of national respect.

Bridgewater, in dominating fashion, captured its second consecutive Old Dominion Athletic Conference crown and posted the best record in all of collegiate baseball in Virginia. Setting a new school record of 23 wins in a season, with seven losses, the Eagles boasted a .767 winning percentage. The magazine Collegiate Baseball ranked B.C. 29th nationally among Division III teams.

Unlike last spring, when the Eagles emerged champions as the fifth-seeded underdogs, B.C. was the definite favorite having finished on top of the regular season standings. The Eagles won their first 10 ODAC games before splitting double-headers with Lynchburg (6-2 win, 4-3 loss), and Randolph-Macon (4-3 loss, 4-1 win). The number one seed was secured with a 12-2 record, edging Lynchburg (11-3) by a full game.

An opening round home victory for the Eagles brought a return of the semifinal and championship games to the central Shenandoah Valley. Harrisonburg's Memorial Stadium served as the Eagles' home away from home while the campus field underwent repairs from the November flood. It was also at Memorial that B.C. claimed the '85 title with a 6-4 win over Randolph-Macon.

In the quarterfinal contest, the Eagles' league-leading offense produced 13 runs through the first three innings against Emory & Henry. The last-place Wasps scored their runs late in the game to make it a respectable 13-8 final.

The Eagles exploded for six runs in the third inning of the semifinal game to erase a 2-0 Hampden-Sydney lead. The fourth-place Tigers' defense came unraveled as the preseason favorites committed seven errors. Bridgewater, as championship teams do, took advantage of the miscues and rolled to an 18-3 decision. Alan Stadler of Harrisonburg, owner of numerous B.C. pitching records, set another with the complete game victory. The right-hander won for a school-record eighth time against two losses, and brought his career win total to 17.

Junior shortstop Barry Davis led the Eagles with a .404 batting average. He was named Team MVP, All-ODAC, and College Division All-State.

The afternoon's other semifinal game provided more dramatics. Third-seeded Randolph-Macon used a two-run, two-out rally in the top of the ninth to oust second-seeded Lynchburg. The victory sent the Yellow Jackets into a championship rematch with the defending champion Eagles. Randolph-Macon, just as a year ago, was the first to get on the scoreboard. The first three Randolph-Macon batters faced by B.C. starting pitcher Jeff Dean of Charlottesville connected for singles. The last base hit gave the Yellow Jackets a 2-0 lead that held until the fifth.

Randolph-Macon threatened with the top of its order to lead off the fifth, but the B.C. defense rose to the occasion. Freshman catcher Charlie Grant of Waynesboro (.305 batting average) gunned down a Yellow Jacket base runner attempting to steal second. That resulted in eliminating one potential run as the ODAC's leading hitter, Scott Rash, belted an ensuing double. Rash tried to score from second on a single up the middle, but B.C. centerfielder Tim Shiflett of Warrenton cut down the runner with a perfect strike to the plate, and Grant held his ground. Thus the momentum turned as Randolph-Macon failed to score on three consecutive hits.

Freshman first baseman Pat Shiflet of Dayton began the Eagles' fifth inning with a walk. One out later, Barry Davis of Charlottesville delivered a double down the third base line to score Shiflet and cut the margin to 2-1. Billy Dickerson's single with two outs scored Davis to tie the score. The Eagles took total control when, a batter later, freshman designated hitter Doug Shiflett of Elkton, blasted a two-run triple. Shiflett eventually stole home to give B.C. a 5-2 advantage.

The Eagles struck for four more runs in the seventh, highlighted by another two-run Shiflett triple.

Meanwhile, Dean was closing the door on the Yellow Jackets. The lean right-hander retired 10 of the last 11 batters he faced. In going the distance, Dean raised his record to 7-1, as he struck out six, walked one and scattered 10 hits. The final, B.C. 9, RMC 2.

"This has been a super finish for these guys," said first-year coach Curt Kendall the night of the championship. "The feeling of winning that ball game . . . well, I can't even describe it. I've played a lot of games in my life, I've won some championships, but I haven't had the feeling that I have tonight."

Kendall, who played for the 1978 ODAC champion Eagles, was named both ODAC and Virginia College Division (II & III) Coach-of-the-Year.

Junior shortstop Barry Davis topped the list of seven Eagles who received post-season honors. Davis was named team MVP, first team All-ODAC, and

Former Eagles Make Good in Pro Ball

Freshman Pat Shiflett started the rally in the victory over Randolph-Macon College.

College Division All-State. He led the Eagles with a team-high .404 batting average, cracked two home runs and tallied 21 RBI.

Also selected first team All-ODAC were pitcher Jeff Dean (7-1, 3.56 ERA, 37 SO), winner of the Geisert Pitching Award; center fielder Tim Shiflett (.363 BA, 5 HR, 27 RBI), winner of the College's 100%er Award; and third baseman Billy Dickerson (.388 BA, 3 HR, 31 RBI). Second team All-ODAC choices included first baseman Freddie Heatwole (.333 BA, 1 HR, 26 RBI, 29 BB); second baseman Randy Smith (.287 BA, 2 HR, 19 RBI); and pitcher Alan Stadler (8-2, 3.48 ERA, 67 SO).

With a record of 21-2 against Division III opposition, the Eagles had hopes of competing in the national tournament. All 24 teams in the national event are selected at-large by regional committees. The Eagles are in the south region, the strongest in the country as five of the nation's top ten were from the south. Unfortunately for B.C. it was only those five which were chosen.

However, the Eagles return all but one player, senior Freddie Heatwole, from the most successful team in B.C. baseball history. Next spring the Eagles plan to be playing when the regionals begin in mid-May.

The postulate for building any program with a strong tradition is successful preceding generations. A nostalgic glimpse of the Eagles' baseball program reveals individual progress uncommon among contemporary small college athletes. The years enveloping the Great Depression brought financial gain to a trio of men who donned the Eagle-nine uniform, as professional members of the nation's number one pastime.

Emery "Kit" May (class of '25), Warren J. Huffman (class of '37), and Bennie F. Huffman (class of '38), all were employed within the ranks of professional baseball after playing at Bridgewater. Both May and Bennie Huffman reached the highest level in the profession, the major leagues, while Warren Huffman enjoyed an outstanding minor league career.

May began his pro days playing with Martinsburg, W.Va., a minor league club in the Blue Ridge League. According to his brother, C. E. May (class of '24), the late Kit moved up to the major-league franchise Philadelphia Athletics for one full season. The next spring the Major league scouts got their first look at "Kit" May on the Bridgewater baseball diamond in the early 1920's.

Athletics sold the right-handed pitcher to Memphis, Tenn., of the minor-league Southern Association. May, who also was a dependable pinch hitter, helped lead his club to several championship pennants during his seasons in Memphis.

Bennie Huffman was the Eagles' catcher in 1936 and one year later made his pro debut with the St. Louis Browns of the major league. As is the case today, it was rare to break into the majors during the first pro season. He enlisted in the U.S. Navy in 1942 where he teamed with several Hall of Famers on service squads. Following World War II, Huffman returned to the Browns as a player-manager. He was hired by the Chicago White Sox in 1948 and served stints as a manager and scout. He retired from the Chisox organization after 36 years of service.

Warren "Lefty" Huffman (no relation to Bennie) was referred to as a "stellar" and "brilliant" outfielder by newspaper reporters during his career in the farm systems of Detroit and Boston. Lettering eight times in three sports at B.C., Huffman had his finest pro season in 1939. He was one of 38 players selected from 41 minor leagues to participate in the Centennial Minor League All-Star game held in Cooperstown, N.Y. That year, while playing for Staunton, Lefty led the Valley League with a .415 batting average. He finished second in the national batting title, which includes both major and minor league players, with the likes of Joe Dimaggio (.381) and Johnny Mize (.349) leading the major leagues.

"Lefty" Huffman sports the uniform he wore in the 1939 Minor League Centennial All-Star Game in Cooperstown, N.Y.

Track And Field Team Set Several New Records

Chuck Boller learned to throw the javelin during this meet. He later qualified for the NCAA National Championships in this event.

Field events and middle distance races carried the Eagles to a meet record of 9-3 during the 1986 outdoor track and field season.

Sophomore Steve Eye, Edinburg, Va., was named the squad's Most Valuable Performer in his first season with the Eagles. Eye tallied 44 points throughout the spring while competing in the shot put and discus and setting a new school standard in the former. His toss of 48 feet 11 and one-half inches came during the Mason Dixon Relays and broke the old record of 48'1½" set in 1980 by Joe Freeland, '80. It was a heave equal to Freeland's that earned Eye first place and All-ODAC honors during the ODAC championship meet.

Freshman Chuck Boller, Harrisonburg, Va., was a pleasant surprise for coach Shane Stevens. Boller qualified for the NCAA Division III National Championships (La Crosse, Wis) in the javelin, an event in which he competed for the first time this spring. Boller won the ODAC title and All-Conference laurels with a hurl of 195'1", upsetting the defending champion in the process. His distance also goes into the record books as the best in B.C.'s long track and field history. The old record was established in 1973 by Larry Maxie (class of '74), with a measurement of 188'10". Boller was ranked seventh going into the national event, but he failed to make the finals.

Keith Harris, a senior from Ruckersville, Va., was a consistent performer in the 800-meter middle distance race. Harris won the event in three of four team meets scheduled this spring. His best clocking was recorded during the ODAC championships, 1:58.0, to finish second.

Other strong individual performances were turned in by Mark Saunders (2nd in ODAC shot), Bryan Moser, Joe Ott, Jason Strosnider, and Tim Llewellyn in field events. Top runners included D. W. Cash, Billy Mays, Lester Herman and hurdler Stacy McDonald.

The Eagles were disappointed with their overall team finish in the conference meet. The Eagles' placed fourth behind champion Lynchburg (152), Washington & Lee (138) and Roanoke (90). Bridgewater had defeated Roanoke twice in regular season meetings. A total of 24 members should return from this year's 29-man roster for competition next spring, and hopefully a stronger showing in the conference.

Men's Tennis Succeeds Against Tough Competition

Coach Carlyle Whitelow was delighted with the performance of the Eagles' 1986 men's tennis squad which posted an overall record of 6-7. "I was more than pleased with what turned out to be a very good season," stated Whitelow. We did very well against some tough opponents and were close to finishing with a winning record," said Whitelow.

The Eagles had several close matches including three that were won by a 5-4 count and another that was lost by the same difference. The squad reeled off six victories in its first eight outings before encountering stiff ODAC opposition.

"The real reward was the attitude of the players which couldn't have been any better," noted Whitelow. "Co-captains Marshall Butler and Arthur Heffner did an excellent job of providing leadership, particularly during practices at which I could not be present."

the Most Improved Player Award. The senior from Franklin, Va., registered a 9-7 singles record playing at the number two flight. Sophomore Patrick Sloyan, Paeonian Springs, Va., earned the Most Outstanding Player Award. In his first season with the Eagles, Sloyan battled to a 7-9 number one singles mark and finished third in the ODAC championship tournament.

"Patrick was outstanding and is a very intelligent tennis player. He has an excellent court manner and was often praised by opposing coaches," said Whitelow. "He has patience and good placement and basically an all-around solid game," he added.

This spring's success has prompted optimism for the next season. "I look forward to adding a couple of young players to our experience," said Whitelow in hopes of boosting the record above the .500 level.

Women's Tennis Team Breaks Last Year's Record

Sherisue Barber recorded the best singles record at 12-3.

A year ago a rather young women's tennis squad won nine of its 12 matches, establishing a new Bridgewater record for wins in a season. This spring, with the return of five of last year's top six players, the Eagles again changed the record books. The junior dominated squad served up 10 victories in 1986 against five setbacks.

Sherisue Barber of Haymarket, Va., turned in the top singles record at 12-3 while playing at the second flight. The only senior, Barber completed her career with an overall singles mark of 28-18. She teamed with junior Diana Beard, Roanoke, Va., to post the team's best doubles record of 11-4. Beard competed at the number one flight and notched an 8-6 ledger.

Juniors Cole Lawrence, Martinsville, Va., and Susan Milleson, Berryville, Va., recorded individual winning records for the third consecutive season. Lawrence improved her outstanding career record to 28-8 with an 11-4 campaign in '86. Milleson went 8-5 for a career mark of 22-10.

Junior Beth Rogers and sophomore Lisa Kuykendall tallied singles records of 7-8 and 7-6 respectively. In doubles, the Rogers-Lawrence team went 9-6, while Milleson-Kuykendall finished 7-5. Junior Samantha Ligon, Burke, Va., and freshman Carrie Moss, Dumfries, Va., rounded out the eight-member roster.

In conference play, the Eagles posted a regular season slate of 6-4 and finished sixth in the 10-team field at the conference championship tournament.

Lacrosse Duo Scores 74 Goals

Paced by the 1-2 offensive punch of sophomore Carolyn Magee, Collegeville, Pa., and senior Vickie Glassman, Havre de Grace, Md., the Eagles' lacrosse team finished its season with a 4-8 overall record.

Magee led the Eagles with 43 goals this spring while Glassman netted 31. During the Eagles' 18-4 romp of Hood College, Magee scored a Bridgewater record-tying nine goals. The feat was first accomplished by Debbie Britchard, who twice scored a "triple hat trick" during the 1972 season.

The other B.C. victories were a season-opening 12-7 decision over Randolph-Macon Woman's College, a 7-6 edging of Mary Washington College and a 13-3 rout of conference foe Hollins College. The season came to an end in the first round of the ODAC championship tournament. The fifth-seeded Eagles fell to quarterfinal host and fourth seeded Randolph-Macon College 16-7.

Magee, who was the conference's fourth highest scorer was selected to the Virginia Three All-Star team along with teammate Melita Ball, a junior from collegiate career, leading the team with an 83.0 season average this spring. The senior from Lexington, Va., was the medalist in the Eagles' second place tri-match finish against Randolph-Macon College (first place) and Catholic University (third place). His best score of the season was registered on the Lexington Country Club Course where he carded a 76.

Other team members who earned a letter were Scott Jackson (Kinderhook, N.Y.), Darrell Plogger (Lexington, Va.), Jeff Thompson (Gainesville, Va.), Alan Landes (Weyers Cave, Va.), Jeff Hawes (Sterling, Va.), and Mark Griffin (Hot Springs, Va.).

Coach Neal and his golfers faced more than just obstacles on the course during the 1986 season, playing by far the toughest schedule in the 11-year history of the B.C. program. The Eagles finished with a match record of 2-11.

With determination, however, Neal predicts that the Eagles are "going to do a lot better next year."

Professor Trout Dies

Former Professor and Music Department Chairman Philip E. Trout, a member of Bridgewater's class of 1950, died March 5 at the Bridgewater Home where he had been a patient since November.

Professor Trout was a member of the Bridgewater College faculty from 1958 until 1979, when he retired due to his progressive illness caused by Alzheimer's Disease.

Prof. Trout served as Instructor of Music at Bridgewater from 1958 to 1961, as Assistant Professor of Music from 1961 to 1974, and as Associate Professor of Music from 1974 until 1979. He served as Chairman of the Department of Music from 1965 until 1978.

While at Bridgewater, Prof. Trout directed the College Chorale and Quartets in addition to teaching private voice lessons and in the classroom. He served on various committees including the Cultural Activities Committee, Chapel Committee, Social Committee, Deputation Committee, Convocation Committee, and Council on Student Affairs.

Prof. Trout held a Master of Music degree from Florida State University, and he completed additional graduate study at Florida State, the University of West Virginia, and the Eastman School of Music. At Florida State, he studied voice under the direction of Miss Anna Kaskas, mezzo-soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Prof. Trout was minister of music at the Central Church of the Brethren in his native Roanoke and at First Church of the Brethren in Harrisonburg. He also was Music Director of the Church of the Brethren Annual Conferences in Ocean Grove in 1961 and in Louisville in 1967. He served as Church Music Clinic Director for churches in the Middle Atlantic States, as Director of the Rockingham County High School Music Competition, and as Chairman of the Northern District Music Cabinet for the Church of the Brethren.

He served as Director of the Rockingham County Youth Choir Festival of the American Guild of Organists for six years, and as Sub-dean of the Rockingham Chapter of the A.G.O. Prof. Trout also was a member of an evaluation team appointed by the Virginia State Board of Education for music department evaluations in Richmond and Northern Virginia. He was a member of the National Association of Teachers of Singing, the American Choral Directors Association, and the Music Educators National Conference. He also served as a member of the editorial board for the publication of the Brethren youth songbook, "Alleluia."

Prior to coming to Bridgewater, he taught music in Roanoke city schools.

Prof. Trout is survived by his wife, Nancy Garst Trout, also a 1950 Bridgewater graduate, and by his sons, Philip David Trout, '73, of Falls Church, and Robert Garst Trout, '75, of Butte, Mont.

Dr. Aldhizer Dies

Bridgewater Honorary Trustee George S. Aldhizer, II, for whom the College's George S. Aldhizer, II, Department of Economics and Business is named, died on May 20 at Rockingham Memorial Hospital following an extended illness.

A former State Senator, Dr. Aldhizer was a founding member of the Harrisonburg law firm, Wharton, Aldhizer and Weaver. In 1975, the College conferred upon him the honorary degree Doctor of Laws.

Dr. Aldhizer served as a member of the Virginia House of Delegates from 1950-52 and of the Virginia Senate from 1954-75. In 1974, Dr. Aldhizer was named Chairman of the State Crime Commission to study ways of safeguarding individual privacy, and, at that time, he was second in seniority in the Senate.

He was a graduate of Broadway High School and earned both his bachelor's degree and LLB degree from the University of Virginia. In addition to his law practice and his other activities, he was a poultry and livestock farmer and a prominent breeder of saddle horses.

His community activities were far-reaching. Dr. Aldhizer served as a Trustee tee at Rockingham Memorial Hospital, as Chairman of the Rockingham County School Board, and as President of the Rockingham Library Association. In 1980-81, he served as Chairman of Bridgewater College's area Business and Professional Campaign. He was a member of the Broadway Presbyterian Church, American Legion, Lions Club, Elks Club, and was past Master of Masonic Lodge 27. In 1975, Dr. Aldhizer received the Distinguished Service Award from James Madison University.

In 1984, Bridgewater College established the George S. Aldhizer, II, Department of Economics and Business in recognition of his outstanding reputation as an attorney and businessman, his stature as a political leader in the Commonwealth and as a civic leader in the community, and his supportive interest in all of education and, most especially, in Bridgewater College. An endowment in excess of $1,000,000 will be funded through Dr. Aldhizer's estate which will provide support for the Aldhizer Department. Eventually, the Aldhizer Department of Economics and Business will periodically sponsor the Aldhizer Business Symposium which will focus on current and future economic and business questions. The Aldhizer Symposium will seek to bring to campus nationally and internationally recognized scholars and business executives to expose members of the campus community to current economic thought and to enable them to participate actively in discussions with these financial authorities.

Dr. Aldhizer is survived by two sisters, Mary Moore Aldhizer of Harrisonburg and Sidney M. Beeson of Broadway.

Congratulations!!! . . . And Thanks!!!

Congratulations to all of you who are involved in the Bridgewater College Alumni Association. This past year, you folks were responsible for alumni floats in the Homecoming parade and special events during Homecoming and Alumni Weekend. You made outstanding selections from among Bridgewater students to receive the two alumni scholarships and the Citizenship Award, and you can also be proud of your choices for this year's Distinguished and Young Alumnus Awards.

Three cheers to all who helped with this year's Business

Campaign and Phonathon—two very successful fund-raising endeavors that netted the College approximately $170,000.

We are grateful also to the many Class Agents who we listed in the October issue and to the committee members and chairpersons who will be part of the upcoming President's Report.

Volunteers play such a vital role in the continuing success of the College and add so much to the life of Bridgewater. Again, many thanks and congratulations on another terrific year.
